THE FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS

BOTHING THE MATTER WITH THE PLUMBING IN THE SENATE WING.

The Well and La Abra Claim Again Sefere Congress-The House Wants to Know How the Money Appropriated for the World's Fair Has Been Expended. WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.-Senator Sherman, who has been absent during the recent canvass for Senator in Ohio, returned to his sent at the opening of the Senate to-day and received the congratulations of his associates on his reflection. Architect Cincks of the Capitol, in response to the resolution of the Senate respecting alleged defective ventilation and plumbing dangerous to health in the Senate wing of the building, reported that he considered the Senate chamber and corridors well ventilated. and also all the committee rooms originally constructed for that purpose. There were some apartments formerly used as store rooms, now used as committee rooms, which were only rentilated by air forced in by fans and through the open doors. The plumbing, in his opinion, was in good condition, except in the case of one washstand, now being put in good order. He was aware of no defect in sewerage or plumbing which might be dangerous to

Mr. Hale (Rep. Me.) offered a resolution directing the Secretary of State to send to the Senate, as early as practicable, copies of all agreements made with other countries relating to interchange of commerce under Section S of the McKinley bill, and all information received as to the practical effect of such agree sof the McKinley bill, and all information received as to the practical effect of such agreements. Mr. Hale asked that the resolution lie on the table, and said that he should call it up at some future day.

The regular order was then taken up, which was the till reported by Mr. Dolph Rep., Ore.), from the Committee on Foreign Relations, to enlarge and smend the act of 1878 for the distribution of the award paid by Mexico to the United States under the mixed American and Mexican Claims Commission of 1868.

Mr. Dolph explained that the object of the bill was to instruct the Attorney-General to bring suit before the Court of Claims to definitely determine whether the award made to the La Abra Company was secured by fraud and false testimony. The original amount of the award made to the Well and La Abra claimants was $672.000 in American gold, payable in rearly installments. Payments had been made to the amount of $240,000 when the Secretary of State (Mr. Evarts), our opposed of fraud in the presentation of the claim laid before him by the republic of Mexico, ordered the suspension of the payments of the remaining eight installments, and asked Congress to legislate on the subject.

Mr. Vest (Dem., Mo.) addressed the Senate in opposition to the view that Congress had the right to invade the domain of the political department of the Government by conferring pleary powers upon a municipal court to retry this whole case after the Senate, by a con-department of the Government by conferring pleasing powers upon a municipal court to re-try this whole case after the Senate, by a con-situtional majority, had decided that there was no remedy needed. At 4. P. M. the Senate went into executive cos-sion and at 4:10 adjourned until to-morrow.

House of Representatives,

The seventh week of the session began today with no rules for the guidance of the House, and its presiding officer still within the grasp of the grip. Speaker pro tem. McMillin therefore called the House to order at noon.

Mr. Reilly (Dem., Pa.) introduced the following, which was adopted: Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby requested to inform the House of Representatives what amount of money has been appropriated to and is available under the act of April 25, 1890, relative ing to the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago; also what amount of the money so appropriated has been expended, with an itembed statement showing to whom paid, for what purpose, and upon what account-

By Mr. Simpson of Kausas—To repeal section 14 of the act of February, 1878, which made the gold dollar the unit of value.

The House then took up the bill regulating the whole subject of Government printing, introduced by Mr. Richardson of Tennessee. After the bill had been read Mr. Richardson explained its provisions. The chief feature is the establishment of a distributing bureau, under a superintendent, through which all Government publications shall be sent out. The effect of the bill will be to considerably reduce the annual cost of printing.

The bill was laid over, and the House then adjourned until to-morrow.

LIVE WASHINGTON TOPICS.

Things of Interest Happening In and Out of the Halls of Congress,

Washington, Jan. 18.—Mr. Vincent A. Taylor of Ohio introduced in the House to-day a bill providing for the designation of banks to act as depositaries of money of the United

It provides that in each city where, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury, the public business demands a depositary of the funds of the United States, he shall cause to be published once a week for the period of four weeks, in two newspapers of general circulation in each of such cities, a notice asking sealed proposals from banks and bankers to act as such depositary for three years. The form of such proposals shall contain an agreement to pay into the Treasury of the United states a specified rate of interest on the daily balances of the funds so deposited, and the feeretary shall designate as the depositary of the public funds in each eity the bank offering the highest rate of interest, provided the bank so designated shall, within two weeks from the daity of the notice thereof, give satisfactory security for the performance of its duties as such depositary, and shall conform to such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe. The Secretary may require of the depositary additional security, and upon its refusal or failure to give the same, he may remove the depositary additional security, and upon its refusal or failure to give the same, he may remove the depositary and designate another in its stead. He may reserve the right to reject all bids, and in the event of such rejection, he shall again advertise for proposals in the manner hereinbefore provided. He shall also have the power to withdraw the deposition any depositary whenever the public interests are not subserved by its continuance in said city. sealed proposals from banks and bankers to is said city.

It speaking of his bill, Mr. Taylor said:

For the past five years the Government has had on deposit with banks designated as depositaries, a sum averaging for that period $3,000,000. Much of this money remains in bank for a long time. This means that in the past five years certain favored banks have been presented by the Government with the interest on the great sum of over $30,000,000, asy at three per cent, a year, a limost one milian dediars a year. While a member of the Ohio Senate I secured the enactment of that have famous depositary law for the city of Cleveland, which uncarthed the Axworthy dealeration of more than $800,000. The banks of Cleveland were at first hostile to the law, and combining together, refused to bid, but on the second advertising the Euclid Avenue National Bank broke away and secured the money on a bid of 2.13 per cent. That was three years ago, and when at the expiration of the rate at which the money was awarded was 4.30 per cent. If the money of the city of Cleveland is worth 4.30 per cent. If the money of the city of Cleveland is worth 4.30 per cent. If the money of a city that rate on the much more ateady deposit of the covernment funds. And no good reason can be given vny the great sum of money herstores should not go to the people.

the law was binding and reviewable only by the Treasury Department, and not by the courts. The controversy arose over a decision of the Commissioner of Immigration at San Francisco in rejusing to allow Nishimura Ekiu and five other Japanese women to land at that port, his ground for so doing being that they were likely to become public charges and had been imported for immoral purposes. Nishimura Ekiu sued out a writ of errot to the United States Circuit Court for the Northern district of Californis, but the writ was dismissed for want of jurisdiction. Then the case came to the United States Supreme Court on appeal. In its decision to-day the court says that it refused to consider all but one contention made, that in regard to the right of review, and in affirming the decision it holds that the Commissioner of Immigration's action is roviewable only by the Treasury Department. Under the ruling the women will be returned to Japan. Justice Gray rendered the decision. Justice Brewer dissented.

Miss Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Miss Lucy Stone, and Miss Howell Hooker appeared before the House Committee moder appeared before the House Committee on Judiciary to-day in support of the joint resolution introduced by Mr. Greenleaf of New York proposing an amendment to the Constitution extending to women the right to yote at all Federal elections. Each lady addressed the committee, advocating the passage of the resolution. The resolution submits to the Legislatures of the soveral States the proposed amendment to the Constitution.

The Supreme Court of the United States tolay, in rendering an opinion in the case of A. C. Petri vs. the Commercial National Bank of Chicago, an appeal from the Circuit Court for the Northern District of Texas, decided that a national bank was entitled to the same rights as a citizen in entering suitagainst a person in the judicial district of the State where the per-son sued resides. Chief Justice Fuller ren-dered the decision.

Representative Mills returned to Washington from Texas on Saturday night. He came back in good spirits, and will take an active back in good spirits, and will take an active part in the business of Congress. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Mills was in conforence for several hours with Mr. Merrison of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Mr. Watterson, editor of the Louisville Couver-Journal, and Senator Carlisle. It is said that Mr. Morrison is in the hands of his friends as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, and one of them asserts that he could obtain a majority of the Illnois delegation despits the Falmer boom. Mr. Mills reached the Capitol shortly before 3 o'clock, and received quite an ovation from members, both Democratic and Republican. He at once entered into conference with Mr. McMillan, who was on the floor of the House, Mr. Oates of Alabama being in the chair.

PASTOR BARNEY ASKED TO RESIGN. Session Thinks He Did Not Give the Eigh

teenth Ward Doctrine Enough. The Rev. Lewis C. Barney, pastor of Grace Presbyterian Chapel, 340 East Twenty-second street, and the session of the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church, to which the chapel is attached, have disagreed, and Mr. Barney preaches his last sermon in the chapel on Jan. 31. The Elders and deacons of the late Dr. Crosby's church concluded that Mr. Barney did not preach doctrine enough, and they asked him to resign his charge.

Union Theological Seminary. He came to drace Chapel a little over a year ago from a charge in Whitestone.

Let The Elders of the Fourth Avenue Church began to hear rumors as early as last September about the laxity of the doctrines which Mr. Barney preached. He was called before a committee of the Elders who questioned him. According to Mr. Barney's own statement last night, fault was found with the young minister because in preaching the scheme of salvation he did not lay sufficient stress upon the death of Christ, and made too much of the life of Christ. He did not preach, it seems, the advanced views held by Prochyterian ministers of the liberal school, but rather failed to preach enough doctrine.

My relations with the Elders of the church, are most cordial, said Mr. Barney last night "and we disagree simply upon a question of doctrine. By congregation at the chapel were perfectly satisfied with what I preached to them. It was a practical Christianity that I taught, and it may have been lacking in doctrine. But the people of the neighborhood where I was laboring want practical Christianity and not doctrinal, to my way of thinking. I have had some of the members of my congregation at my home, and they have danced there. Perhaps half a dozen have taken exception to this form of amusement, but their opposition has never resulted in anything tangible. The Elders of the Fourth Avenue Church and myself will part on the kindest terms.

A contingency may arise which will make it necessary for me to appeal to the New York Presbytery, but at present I have not decided to do this. If the action of the session of the Fourth Avenue Church has cast such a cloud over me that I cannot obtain another charge in the Presbyterian Church. I may appeal di-rectly to Presbytery to pass upon my ortho-doxy."

Mr. Barney has been studying philosophy at the New York University recently. He is a friend of Dr. Briggs, although not in accord with him in all his views.

WRECKED BY A BROKEN SWITCH. No One Killed, Though the Train Was

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis., Jan. 18.-A bad accident occurred at Sheppard's on the Omaha coad, five miles south of this city, to the St. Paul express from Chicago, known as No. 3, his morning at 9:15 o'clock. A broken switch threw the passenger, sleeper, and dining car from the track, the sleeper being thrown on its side in the ditch. Nine passengers were in this car and were taken out through the proken windows, and with the exception of three or four miraculously escaped serious injuries. The train was nearly an hour behind time, and was running at the rate of fifty miles time, and was running at the rate of fifty miles an hour when the accident occurred. The track was torn up for a distance of twenty rods, and the rails snapped like pipe stems. Fire did not break out in the sleepers until the passengers got out, else all must have been burned with the car. The wrecker is at work, and the track will be cleared up by to-night and trains running on time.

The injured are Brakeman William; Schultz of St. Faul, ribs breken and other injuries; A. H. Willis of Boston, out on head and back hurt; G. W. Little, Jr., of Chicago, leg out and badly bruised; Henry Bell, Fhiladelphia, hurt internally; E. F. Fowler, Chicago, legs hurt; A. T. Hunt, Chicago, head out; G. Stewart Wallsee, London, England, considerably pruised about head; G. G. Shower, Chicago, head and shoulders badly bruised; F. Chickering of this city, bruised and out.

A Free Spectacular Show in Montana LEWISTON, Mont., Jan. 18.-A wonderful nirage was distinctly visible near this city resterday afternoon. The mirage has cause onsiderable alarm, however, because it is eared the Indians may have started on the warpath and encountered a party of hunters. Through the vistas, during the afternoon, the hunters and the red men could be seen repeatedly to charge and retreat. The Indians peatedly to charge and retreat. The Indians were apparently well supplied with ammunition, and by superior numbers they finally succeeded in capturing a party of a dozen hunters. Those who witnessed the wonderful scenic effect produced by the mirage, assert that they could distinctly see the savages build piles of fagots and burn their captives at the stake. Mid-winter mirages in the clear, crisp atmosphere of the llockies are rare, and phenomena of this character are usually reproductions of real events or real sections of the country. Bo far as could be ascertained last night the Indians on the reservations are peaceable.

DOWD BOUND FOR AUBURN.

THE SLASHER ALREADY INDICTED AND SPEEDILY TO BE TRIED.

He and His Brother, the Religious Crank, Exchange Compilments in the Tombe Court, Each After His Kind-Is this the Dowd who Slashed Flynn in July, 1887? Henry G. Dowd, the Jack the Slasher captured by the police early on Sunday morning. Muller, supposedly his seventh victim, will probably, before the week is out, be in an sylum from which he cannot escape through a transom. He was indicted yesterday for as mult in the first degree. District Attorney Nicoll says he will be tried at the earliest pos sible moment, and that he will start for the State Asylum for Insane Criminals as soon as his trial is finished. That will be the course percatter of every crank taken in crime by the police, whether or not be is declared harmless by the doctors.

The Slasher passed a sleepless night at the Oak street station. He had a cell next to the one occupied by his brother. John James, the cligious crank. John James wanted to pray. and the Slasher invited him to go to sheel. Capt. McLaughlin visited Oak street early.

and he and Capt. O'Connor congratulated each other. They called in Policeman Masterson who captured Dowd; Policeman McCrorey who helped, and Policeman Lang. Then they sent for the Slasher and his brother. Down looked rocky. There was a patch of dried clood on the side of his head, where Police man Carter's night stick had landed. The wound had not been dressed. His left eye was black, where Policeman Masterson's fist had struck, and his lip was cut where it had come in contact with McCrurey's fist.

Capt. O'Connor handcuffed the Slasher to Masterson. Then he sent two more police men out to clear the street of the crowd that had gathered, anxious to get a look at the man. When this was done the two Captains linked arms and marched out of the station linked arms and marched out of the station. The Slasher and Masterson were at their heels, and McCrorey and Lang with night sticks were the rear guard.

The crowd had lined up along the curbs of the streets leading toward the Tombs. They made remarks about Dowd. Home one advised a lynching party. McCrorey reached for the some one, but missed him.

Judge Duffy was waiting at the Tombs, and the party went into his private office. John James came along in a few minutes with another policeman. He had to sit among the Monday morning drunks in the court room. Masterson was unshackled from the Slasher, and went to the Clerk's desk and swore to an affidavit accusing the man of ussault with intent to kill Muller.

The Slasher was brought out in open court with Masterson and McCrorey gripping him on either side. He held down his head. The examination was merely formal. Dowd was asked what he had to say. Dowd said he was seven in Liverpool, and his parents were Irish.

"I cut the man in self-defence," he said. "I said he was born in Liverpool, and his parents were Irish.

"I cut the man in self-defence," he said. "I was walking along James street minding my own business, when this fellow I killed came along and bunked me off the sidewalk and assaulted me. I had to cut him to rave my life."

"How did it happen that you had a razor with you?" asked Justice Duffy.

"Why, I shaved myself Saturday night just before I left my room, and—I don't know—I just happened to drop it in my pocket, I guess. I don't carry one usually," said Dowd, locking up.

just happened to drop it in my pocket. I guess. I don't carry one usually." said Dowd. looking up.

"Do you know that you are accused of slashing all these other persons?" asked the Justice.

"Yes," answered the Slasher, "I know it, but it ain't right. I only cut one man. That was the fellow who assaulted me Saturday night. I never cut anybody else. I wouldn't hurt anybody—not even a fly."

The Slasher so far appeared rational. He got a little excited when the Justice asked him what his father had been a civil engineer and that he had assisted his father.

"I shall remand you without bail until Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock," said the Justice. Dowd walked down to the pen still held by the two policemen. John James was called next. He hadn't taken any interest in the Slasher's examination. His eyes had been closed, and he had evidently been praying. In answer to the Justice's questions he said that the Slasher had been confined in the Flatbush asylum and another asylum, and had escaped from both. He had also been sent to State prison for five years.

"Is it true," asked the Justice, "that you are a religious erank. or, rather, a crapk on religion. Sir, it is," said John James, "and I am proud of my attachment to religion, and I don't know but what it would be better for my res, sir, its, "said John James," and I am proud of my attachment to religion, and I don't know but what it would be better for my prother if he had an attachment like that too." The Justice committed him to Bellevue Hos-pital to be examined as to his sanity, and the Siasher muttered "damn fool" as he was led Sissier muttered damin fool as he was led away.

The Slasher was taken down stairs and locked up. Masterson then visited the District Attorney's office. Inspector Byrnes had been there before him and arrangements had been made for railroading Dowd to the asylum. Masterson was sent to Assistant District Attorney Lindsay's room. He repeated his affidavit and the case went to the Grand lury at one At 1 o'cleaf the fury presented. Jury at once. At 1 o'clock the jury presented the indictment against Dowd.

District Attorney Nicoli said that the indictment would answer all purposes, and would rid the community of Dowd for good.

"He might have been indicted for the murder of Lawyor Carson" said the District Attorney. "I am morally certain that he is guilty of it and so is Inspector Byrnes, but it is very doubtful if we could get any avidence to prove it. Even if convicted of killing Carson, he could not be punished except by imprisonthe jury presented doubtful if we convicted of killing Carson, he could not be punished except by imprisonment in an asylum. There will be a regular trial on the indiotment for assault, the jury must find that the man is insane, and he will ment in an asylum. There will be a regular trial on the indictment for assault, the jury must find that the man is insane, and he will go to Auburn."

The Slasher will be arraigned to plead this morning.

Inspector Byrnes received yesterday a letter from Daniel Flynn of 406 Second avenue, who says that five years ago his son John Flynn was slashed in the neck by a man named Dowd, and that Dowd was arrested and convicted and sent to the Island for two years. He thinks this is the same Dowd.

John Flynn told a reporter yesterday that he recognized Dowd as his assailant by the picture printed in Ture Stw. The assault, he said, took place on the evening of July 8, 1887. He was out for a stroll, and at the Sixteenth street entrance of Stuyvesant Park a man ran from behind a tree and struck him across the neck with a sharp weepon. He captured the man. Dowd, on that occasion, gave his business as peddler, and at other was a sister of mow the read a sister of Dowd's mother, said yesterday:

"Dowd's mother was a sister of my wife. Both are dead now. The man was always a ne'er-do-well and good for nothing fellow, and he didn't get any sympathy from me. I did not pay his rent through white. I never gave him a penny for any cause whatever. He has aiways been a shiftless fellow; as I say, and I have not seen him for two years. I believe he was insane the last time I saw him, and in my opinion he should never have been allowed to be at liberty. My wife is dead, and my association with her family and her reintives was dropped at her death. Powd's story of his mother having been assaulted by a disrman is. I think, a pure invention. I never heard of such a thing."

Coroner Shea, who is to hold the inquest in the Carson case is much interested in the report printed in Tire Sun yesterday that Dowd had trouble with a lawyer in Baltimore three years ago, and he will try and find if Carson was the lawyer. Carson took to drink and dissipation, much as Dowd did, and at about the same lime.

In capturing Dowd Inspector Byrnes followed

nuch as Dowd did, and at about the same time.

In capturing Dowd Inspector Byrnes followed the plan he followed when, in 1882, he caught Col. Howard Wells, who tried to blackmail Jay Gould. Wells wrote letters and posted them all in station E district. There are a hundred letter boxes in that district. Byrnes had a man and a letter carrier to watch each box. An advertisement aslculated to draw a letter from Wells was pristed in a morning paper. The same day every time a letter was dropped in a station E box a carrier opened the box and looked at the address. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon Wells posted a letter in an Eighth avenue box to the address given in the personal, and he was immediately arrested.

There is already talk about Headquarters of promotion for Foliceman William H. Masterson, who captured Dowd.

Mrs. Brazee, four grown children, and a servant were in bed at the time, Judge Brazee being the only occupant stirring. He was blown sixty feet across the street, where he was found unconscious and bleeding from severe wounds about the head. It seems almost a miracle that none of the sleeping occupants of the house were seriously injured. The walls fell outward, and this probably saved their lives. Last night the Rev. Ivan Panin, who has been holding the meetings at the Bethany Home, left for his home in Grafton, Mass. The condition of affairs brought about by the Rev John Morrow's teachings, he said, had no been exposed fully. He declared that one day he was visited by two female members of the Bible class. They argued that he did not preach nor practise the highest order of sanctification. They went with him to a room and locked the door. Then he asked what they meant. One of the women said that the meant the complete control of all unholy imstartling test, and went on to describe to Mr. Panin what they had undergone to determine the degree of holiness to which they had attained. These Mr. Panin denounced as im-

Mr. Panin said he had tried to get Miss Moorhead, the founder of the home, to have the teaching of such doctrines as those suggested by the two women stopped, but she refused and he left. With him went Miss Mary Legge Miss Giffiller, and Mrs. Parmalee, who agroed with him. Miss Mary Moorhead, the founder and manager of the home, speaking through an authorized proxy, said that Mr. Panin was discharged for several reasons. He was vindictive, and attempted to exercise more authority than his position warranted. He insisted on taking three or four of the women into his bedroom, locking the door, and praying with them. Mr. Panin had told the same story to them about sisters named Cole, living at 14 Linton street. They were not inmates of the home and never had been. They merely helonged to the Rev. Mr. Morrow's Bible class. There had been no soandal whatever in connection with any of the inmates of the home. The Rev. W. H. A reporter called at the home of the Misses Cole, 14 Linton street. Four sistors live there, but two of them were out of the city. A girl came to the door, and the reporter repeated to her the Rev. Last night marked the completion of Major George Hill's thirtieth year in the service, and the regiment presented him with a gold watch.

On the Sick List,

Sir Edwin Arnold continues to improve steadily from his attack of the grip, but is confined to his room at the Everett House. He has been able to throw off in a measure the more serious after effects of the disease. His Tuesday morning lecture has been postponed by the advice of his physician.

The Rev. Dr. John Hall, who has been confined to his bed for several days with a bad cold and neuralgia, was able to sit up for a part of the day yesterday. His physicians think he will be out in a few days. He will not preach on Wednesday evening.

Miss Carrie Perkins, who used to impress orowds nightly as the Little Mountain Maid in "Adonia," was married vesterday afternoon to W. Wallace Black, the Jobson Doddle of the "Natural Gas" company. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Francis at the house of Miss Perkins's mother, 101 west Ninety-third street. The groom appeared at the Grand Opera House last night just as if nothing had happened.

The British tramp steamship Jessie, while leaving Havre this morning, collided with the French steamship La Touraine, which has been laid up since Nov. 16, when she completed her last trip from New York. She was slightly damaged. The Jessie escaped injury. La Touraine will resume her trips between Havre and New York in March.

Only Two Deaths Ascribed to Grip, Only eighty-six deaths were reported to the Health Department yesterday. Two were as-scribed to grip and its complications.

A STUDENTS' EATING CLUB. A Movement in Princeton to Circumvent the

Boarding House Keepers. PRINCETON, Jan. 18.-More than 500 students assembled in University Hall this morning to consider the question of organizing a uniof the college, in an address, said that during the long period in which he has had charge of sick students he was often pained to find that their sickness was due to poor food. Profs. Sloane and Libbey promised the students their hearty personal support. Some graduates have promised to advance money to start the have promised to advance money to start the club.

The students had a free discussion as to the methods on which the club could be run. It was the opinion of those present that the boarding mistresses in the town did not give them value for their money, and that they should desert them. They backed up their cointons by signing a paper piedzing themselves to join the university club.

The price fixed for board is $4 per week, the profits to be equally divided at the end of the year among the members of the club. Joseph Huston, John M. Mayhew, and Joseph M. Shellabarger were appointed a committee to confer with the faculty and Prof. Libbey on the renting of a hall.

A Physician Dead in His Sleigh. PITTSBURGH, Jan. 18.-Dr. M. D. McCandless of Youngstown, O. was on Monday evening found dead in his sleigh two miles east of the city. Heart disease was the cause of his death. He was 52 years old and a member of the Ma-honing County Medical Society.
